Title: .....

I disagree because there's No age for marriage because it's different from one to one. If I took about this generation they are very lazy.

There's a lot of people older than 21 act like children and they haven't any experience in life. A lot of men in this age haven't work and still in home like girls playing play station and sleeping most of time. No benefit of them just eating and sleep dependent on his father. Aposities some people independent on them self from young age. I took about those people who works any studying at the same time. The preceptor people and can take important disition and take care of children and give's him what they need in conclusion there's on age for marriage in the simple way the person who find in him self ability and sow in himself ready to do this step. I mead of ready ready from whol way's sicology health. socity and not age determent when we should to marage.
