

Time spent in an English-speaking country: X

Age: 20

Semester: 6

Faculty: Human Sciences

Topic: Studying philosophy can lead to a happier and more peaceful existence.

Original Text:

Title: Studying philosophy

Philosophy is a branch of study that reveals what beyond the nature and contains distinctive discourse about the nature and the feelings of humans about themselves. Also this study provides a lot of ways to feel better about your life as well as yourself. Therefore, we found some people think that studying philosophy can lead to a happier and more peaceful existence.

The person who studies philosophy we can recognize him that is more intellectual and calm than the others, because they study and seek behind the hidden things in life such as, what makes people feel better or why they overthink about something and so on. They know the good things for themselves so they live in the moment and never mind about the future, they focus on to be yourself and to be more relaxed as well as flexible.

In conclusion, studying philosophy makes people more happier and more peaceful in life, due to they know how to make any action for their useful and think just about this day not tomorrow. They believe in this quotation: Yesterday is history, tomorrow is mystery but today is now so that is why we call it present.